the British ship Ambassador, from London to soluble, and the Manure brought into the condition of a free dry powder.

It loses nothing from exposure to the atmosphere, or to the heat of the sun. It is offered to the farmer with a Guarantes of its composition, and is, in fact, the richest and, considering the quality, the cheupest Guaranteed Manure at present in the market. Its fertilising properties are such as will enable the consumer to derive the greatest economical advantage from the use of Guano.

APPLICATION OF DISSOLVED PERU-VIAN GUANO TO COLONIAL PRODUCE. SUGAR CANE, - Dissolved Peruvian Guano produces strong and succulent caucs, rich in crystallizable sugar, without detriment to the productive power of the land. From 3 to cwis of Dissolved Paravian Guano per acre is a good dressing for Sugar Cane. INDIAN CORN.—Three to 4 cwts. of Dissolved Peruvian Guano per acre exercises powerful effect upon Indian Corn, and largely increases this crop. RICE.—We should strongly recommend the use of 2 to 3 owts, per acre for Rice, for, although irrigation is generally solely relied upon as a menus of producing a good crop of Rice, there can be no doubt that, in addition to rrigation, 2 or 3 owts, of Dissolved Peruvian Gano per acre will be bighly beneficial. TEA. -Judging from the limited experience. at our command with regard to the manufing of Tea plantations, we confidently recommend it to planters, whose reports we shall be glad to receive.

COTTON.—The yield of Cotton has of late years been greatly increased by the use of artificial manures, containing a fair proportion of ammonia and much soluble phosphate of lime, Pernyian Guano meets the requirements of the passing its door. Its rooms and suites are Cotton plant, inasmuch as it turnishes all the unequalled for comfort, while its Dining Hall is clements of fertility which are calculated to acknowledged to be the most elegant room of 4 to 5 owts, of Dissolved Peruvian Guano per every luxury of the season, prepared by the to answer better.

HONGKONG, JUNE 2ND. 1874.

The various rumours and counter rumour with reference to the intention of the Japanese to carry on a war with Formosa; are at last set at rest by information the nuthenticity of which is beyond question. Our Special Correspondent in Formosa informs us of the actual outbreak of hostilities, and of some petty encounters between the Japanese troops who have already landed in considerable numbers and the semi-savage natives of the island. Up to the present, the fighting has been entirely of a guerilla nature, and appears strangely insignificant when contrasted with the awful slaughter which has attended recent European warfare. At the same time, it is evident that the Japanese are in carnest and a total of three thousand were expected. By last accounts, the Japanese were engaged itpon the natives.

The position of the Chinese in the matter is at once curious and unexpected. It seems that the Chinese corvette Yangwoo had arrived in company with a small gunboat, and brought three Chinese Mandarins from Tain wan-foo to visit the Japanese Commander-in-Chief. These officials were only formally recoived, apparently on the ground of their being too small to negotiate with. But it would appear that as yet there are no demonstrations | Members of the bar by the appearance of Mr. of hostility as between the Japanese and the Chinese. Our Correspondent reports that the Chinese inhabitants of the island are destance. Chapter III. of Act 20 of Richard II. lighted at the slaughter of their enemies, and that they keep on friendly terms with the invaders. It would appear, so far as can be lord, nor other of the country; little nor great, soners, and killed one of the officers on the judged from the limited information at present available, that the Chinese, as we surand bath charged his suid. justices that the mised some time ago, are not louthe to allow the Japanes to settle a difficulty with which they were unable to cope themselves. It is, of course, impossible at the present stage of proceedings to predict what attitude the Chinese may ultimately adopt. But for the present they seem likely to take a watching attitude, and so long as they do not perceive the danger of the Japanese assuming too strong a position will, if we may judge from their tactics on provious occasions of a similar kind, probably leave the Japanese to work matters that they will come in for a has returned to England. share of the triumph. Should the Japanese win, and it appear unlillely that they will proceeds to any extremities in the form of anmeration, the Chinese will be by no means displeased to let them retire, and to gain the benefit of the lesson inflicted upon the unruly Huskisson, 80th Regiment, will not temporarily. the Sun-les Cow-lan, said-the complainant came from fleaven alone that we must seek inhabitants of Formosa, It is not unlikely that should this contingency arise they will appointed Belgian Consul at that port. join towards the end of operations with the Japanese and claim, the chief credit of the Japanese and claim, the chief credit of the from Trieste to Japan has not yet been accom- (unday) the man Lum-a-fook brought a piece A band of the Lancet is given by the of cloth and left it on the bed, saying he wanted a lawyer's office by mistake, and the language of his credit a lawyer's office by mistake, and proved and Lancet is given to understand that the following mont scheme will not meet the required eri- President's action, and the language of his be quite sure they will make such a report to Austrian Government to carry out the project. to send it away. officials in such instances. The Japanese, of Merit."-

who are as astute diplomatists as the Chinese, will probably be able to gauge with telerable accuracy their designs from time to time; and it remains to be seen whether they will not show themselves better able to avoid playing so agreeably into Chinese hands, as has been the case with ourselves, in some instances, where we have assisted them against rebels-in one notable instance of which, the Chinese having been sided by us to put down some robel hordes, reported to Peking that they had subdued both the rebels and the foreigners.,

It is perfectly clear that at all events, at present, the Chinese do not wish to take up the ground when the Japanese have gone beyond the limits within which it is possible to negociate; and it seems likely that th present war will present an interesting example of a species of negociations and fighting such as can only, be witnessed between countries so peculiar as China and Japan. The endeavour of the Chinese will-doubtless be to bring matters to a conclusion without permitting the Japanese to establish themselves in any way in the island; but as wo stated before, this may prove a difficult task when once they have acquired any sortiof ascendency. It is somewhat peculiar that the natives appear as yet to have shown a marked hostility to the Japanese, as the fact is undoubted that they would hail with delight any deliverance from their Chinese oppressors. is by no means impossible that their impression is that the Japanese and Chinese are acting in concert; and it is not without the bounds of possibility that the object of the visit of the Chinese officials to the Japanese commander was in some way to further this idea, and thus induce an opposition to the Japanese such as might make them hesitate in carrying out their designs to the full.

A TALE OF A DOG.

The Marning Post says a dog, who already bore about his muzzle some not inglorious scars, accompanied his master, who carried on his breast the Victoria Cross, to the Ashantee campaign. Being of the bulldog breed, and with a natural turn for fighting, he distinguished himself on several occasions, and indeed throughout the campaign. In one instance he rushed into the enemy's ranks, and, singling out oue of his naked foes, so bit and of the greatest pets of Belgravia!

CONTENDING FORCES

The active politician can hardly get on without deferring to clap-trap and even omploying it. Nay, as Scerates amusingly said. the man who defers to clap-trap and the man who uses his intelligence are, when they meet in the struggle of active politics, like a doctor and a confectioner competing for the suffrages of a constituency of schoolboys; the quent couplet:confectioner has nearly every point in his favour. The confectioner deals in all that the constituency like; the doctor is a man who hurts them, and makes them leave Newbery in the same year as "Edward tho off what they like and take what is disagree- | Third," and there we find even a still-closer able. And accordingly the temptation, in copy: "Herein do men come nearest unto dealing with the public and with the trade | God in shewing mercy and compassion." of active politics, the temptation to be a confectioner is extremely strong, and we see that almost all our leading newspapers and lead- the Archbishop in "Henry the Fifth" that ing politicians do in fact yield to it. - New I need not quote it; but I ask any reader to Preface to Higher Schools and Universities in Compare with it the subsequent impassioned Germany. PARLIAMENTARY VOTES OF THANKS.

The recent Parliamentary vote of thank to the officers and men engaged in the Ashantee War, affords unother instance of the anomalous and spasmodic manner in which such votes are usually given. Whilst it is true that Sir Garnet Wolseley and his companious in arms showed a zealous devotion to the task set before them, yet the consideration naturally suggests itself that the high honours bestowed upon them have been deserved a thousandfold more by innumerable Englishmen, whose claims, although often acknowledged by their follow-countrymen, never received the reward of Parliamentary recognition. The great inventors of the steam engine and the electric telegraph never received votes of thanks from the Legislature, although their services to the nation threw into the remotest shadow all that warriors object of his passion ever did. The philanthropists who have scattered hospitals, churches, chapels, and schools broadcast over the land, are uniformly, in like manner, ignored. . So were the great discoverers of rich regions for the extension of British commerce—such men as Capt. Cook for example.
